HARNEY had 5,000 American troops on the Island, which was placed in a complete state of defence, earth works having been thrown up, and the harbor of Victoria commanded by five pieces of artillery. Gen. HARNEY had written to Gov. Douglass, declaring his intention to hold the Island at all hazards, and to call for assistance from the territories, should any attempt be made to attack him.-He says he occapied the island to protect American citizens from insults of the British authorities of Vancouver's Island. The despatch also states that the British Adminal was endeavoring to bring on a collision.

The Late Gale.

In the gale of Monday night the schooner C. West went ashore three miles from Racine with a cargo of wheat and the loss of one of her crew. She cleared from Chicago on Saturday, and her cargo was owned by Messrs. BRONSON & Co., of that city and insured in the Buffalo Mutual. The vessel was insured in the North-Western. The cargo of the schooner Resolute which went ashore here. was shipped by Messrs. A. E. Kent & Co., or Chinago, and the cargo and vessel both the rivers there is no merchandize fully insured in the Buffalo Mutual and Etcona. The schooner Island Queen is reported ment house, of four stories, in Duane street, the description of the rivers there is no four stories, in Duane street, and the rivers described by the rivers there is no four stories, in Duane street, and the rivers described by the rivers there is no facilities and the rivers the rive badly on the rocks at Point Wabbleshanks. just above the Straits, and nearly submerged. The schooner left Chicago last week for Buffalo, with a cargo of wheat, shipped by HEN-RY FISH. The grain was insured in the Buffalo Mutual. The schooner is owned in Massachusetts and it is not known if she is insured.

Including the injury to the cargo of the St. Albans, which came into this port leaking, on Tuesday morning, this makes the fourth carge of grain shipped from Chicago, lost in the late gale.

The schooner L. B. Crocker arrived a Chicago yesterday, having suffered severely, losing overboard two hundred and seventy barrels of salt. The Captain was severely injured.

The Railroad tracks east of Chicago, were all washed away, and Rail communication to and from that city entirely suspended during the gale. We learn from several of the Captains who arrived yesterday and the day previous, that the large fleet of vessels which left here about the middle of last week loaded with grain, had reached the Straits, and rode the storm out in safety. If this be correct, our Milwankee shippers have been singularly lucky.

OUR NATIONAL FINANCES.-The N. Y. Times recently published a glowing estimate of the condition of the U. S. Treasury, which our Democratic contemporaries made haste to copy, as proof conclusive of the clever financial management of the Buchanan Administration. But the Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, writing under date of the 17th inst., thus puts an extinguisher on the Times' story:

I am authorized to state that the letter in York Times concerning the government finances is not official, so far as any expressions of the Secretary or of his assistants are concerned. They do not expect that the are concerned. They do not expect that the revenues from customs the present fiscal year will exceed in amount the sum estimated by Mr. Cobb last December, namely, fifty-six millions of dollars. This is six and a half millions less than that estimated in the state-

THE STORM .- The gale of Monday effected considerable damage at Racine. The warehouse and pier occupied by John Hely is very much injured, quite a number of tene. ment houses were undermined, broken up and washed away; all the orbbs, and the breakwater were destroyed, and their fragments scattered along the shore. The damage to the city and individuals cannot be less than from twenty-five to fifty thousand dol-and rain set in from the north-east. To-day it is blowing with great violence and raining heavily. There has been no disasters among the shipping as yet. The wind makes a lee on the North river, and there are but very few vessels on the ends of the piers on the East river where the wind draws fair through.

The tide is very high, and excepting the filling of some cellars in the neighborhood of day. This is a pure fabrication. The Chitwo doors east of West Broadway, gave way under a violent blast of wind, and buried several of its inmates in the ruins. No per-son was killed, but six were badly injured.

Washington News and Gossin. Special Correspondence of N. Y. Herald.

Washington, Sept. 18, 1859.
A messenger was dispatched this evening with instructions to Gen. Scott. Our government has left the old hero a wide margin for his future action, relying upon his good judgement and wise counsel in adjusting and settling the existing differences between the two governments. Gen. Scott's willingness in accepting the difficult and ardnous task atly relieved the administration, and they look upon a favorable and happy nation of this at present embarrassing and oublesome question. Mr. Campbell, Boundary Commissioner, who has been engaged for upwards of two years in arranging the boundary in dispute had before him the full and entire views of had before him the full and entire views of our government upon this subject, and, as the administration supposed, had nearly ar-ranged the whole matter, when intelligence of Gen. Harney's seizure of the island of San Juan reached Washington. The admin-istration is somewhat at a loss to know what to do, inasmuch as they have not heard one word from Mr. Campbell since the difficulty arose.

Judge Douglas arrived here last evening.

A FIENDISH ATTEMPT.—Some infamous villain attempted to throw the evening train of cars on the M. & M. Road, off the track, last Saturday. An iron bar was placed upon the track, about two miles beyond the bridge on Rock River, and stones piled on it, so that the cars must inevitably have been thrown off had they come in collision with it. Fortunately, the train was about a half an hour behind ly, the train was about a half an hour behind time, and a man happening to pass by saw the obstruction, procured a lantern, and signalled the train just as it was rushing at full speed upon the prepared destruction.

The villain or villains who were concerned in this fiendish attempt, ought to be ferreted out if possible, and if ever there was a case where prompt lynching was deserved, this is one. Hanging is to good for them.—

Novelly in Fashion.—Among the novel-ties recently introduced in ladies' apparel is a new article of suspenders. They bear re-semblamee to those worn by gentlemen, ex-cept that they are made of delicate, white, elastic fabric, with frilled edge, about one inch wide, and are attached to the skirt by historia like warper. We doubt not this buttons in like manner. We doubt not this invention will be generally adopted, with a view to relieve the waist of the unlimited produce. Reason and experience teach us that the old and absurd method, while followed, impairs the health. impedes locomotion, and tends to ill health.—N. Y. Express.

The United States Hotel stables were burned this morning, and twelve of Dan Rice's horses were smothered in the firmes. They were mostly team horses. The loss will reach $6,000. The fire originated from the bursting of a fluid lamp. The loss sus-tained by the hotel was trifling.

The Detroit and Hilwankee Steamships.

The steamship Milwaukee took out one hundred passengers yesterday morning at 8 c'clock, and about the usual amount of freight. She returned last night at 11 o'clock, with a heavy load of freight, and quite a number of passengers, and went back immediately in order to make up for the time lost by the late gale. The Detroit sailed at 12 M., taking out a goodly number of passengers. and arrived here at her usual hour this morning. Both the Detroit and Milwaukec will cave here at the usual time to-day, 12 M. All this happened during the worst part of the severest storm that has been known on this Lake for years, and the passengers on board the Detroit suffered no inconvenience, No stronger evidence, we think, than this could be adduced to prove the capacity, and staunchness of the new steamships-if not misrepresented. Our severest storms on Lake Michigan are "Nor-Easters," and had the wind been in the usual point during the blow of Monday and Tuesday, the steamships would not have hesitated in going over, simply because there would have been no difficulty in landing at the other side of the Lake. We say therefore, that there is very little probability of their being again interrnpted by bad weather.

THE OPERA To-NIGHT .- To-night will be inaugurated the new stage at Albany Hall by the performance of WEBER's splendid Opera of Der Freischutz. The Musical Society have had this composition in rehearsal for some time, and there is no doubt of its production being a success. We hope to see a good house. The Hall has been tastefully fitted up with stage, proscenium and curtain, and appropriate scenery and properties have been secured for this occasion. The assumption of characters by the members of the Society will test their abilities and offer a better opportunity their abilities and offer a better opportunity for the display of vocal talents than in more chorus singing. THE CAMPBELLS ARE COMING .- The veritable CAMBELLS will be here on Saturday and give one of their-said-to-be-excrutiating performances at Albany Hall. The CAMP-BELLS have an extensive and fair reputation as minstrels, and as the man in the bar-room said, we apprehend a treat.

Publishers Milwaukee Sentinel. "Agitation" Becoming Epidemic.

If there be any one thing to which the National Democratic Party have devoted their exclusive attention and lent their best energies, during the past eight years, it has been to "settle" the slavery question and put a stop to "agitation." We do not precisely remember how many times, within this period, the slavery question has been "settled;" nor how often and how confidently the Shain Democratic organs have announced that all "agitation" on the subject was finally and forever at an end. The Compromise measures, the Kansas-Nebraska act, and the Dred Scott decision, each, in its turn, did the business for "agitation" and successively "saved year of our Lord 1859, with President Bu-CHANAN in the "White House," and the "National Democracy" in power, the Slavery question seems more un-"settled" and "agitation" more rife than ever? How is it, that while the "Black Republicans" are comparatively quiescent, Senator Douglas, as party of the one part, and President BUCHANAN, as party of the other part, regardless of the evil effects of "agitation" and of its possibly perilous consequences to the "Union," have defied each other to mortal combat in the political arena, as champions, respectively, of Squatter Sovereignty and Congressional Intervention? How is it that the Southern journals and the Southern Statesmen, who have so often and so bitterly denounced our Northern presses and people for introducing and discussing an "incendiary" topic, are themselves engaged in this self-same occupation? How is it, that even the News, heretofore the most complacent of doughfaces, and habitually teeming with invectives against the 'Black Republicans," for meddling with matters that did not concern them and interfering with the "constitutional rights" of the South, has suddenly turned

These are pregnant queries, and the auswers to them are significant. The Slavery question is the one, absorbing, living issue in our National politics. All parties are now "agitating" it, and all look to the next Presidential election to "settle" it. Democracy, so-called, has thrice tried its hand at the business, and as often failed. It will fail again, should the result of the next election continue that party in power. If, on the there is every probability that they willwe may reasonably hope for a speedy and definite solution of this problem, which has baffled the wisdom and hastened the downfall of three successive Democratic Adminis-

An Awkward Reminder.

In his Squatter Sovereignty speech at Cincinnati, Senator Douglas made the following positive assertion: Examine the bills and search the records, and you will find that the great principle which underlies those measures in the right of the people of each State and each Territory, article a Territory, to decide the slavery question for themselves.

The Constitution has "searched the records," and discovers that this "great principle" was deliberately voted down in the U.S. Senate, Mr. Douglas himself aiding and abetting the deed.

The Constitution quotes from the Congres-16, 1854. The matter quoted is the celebrated amendment of Mr. CHASE-to add to the 14th section of the substitute reported from the Committee on Territories, as amended on the motion of Mr. Douglas, the words: Under which the people of the Territory, throug their appropriate representatives, if they see st, ma prohibit the existence of stavery therein.

It will be remembered that Douglas vo ted against the CHASE amendment. The vote stood-

The Constitution pertinently remarks:

The amendment of Mr. Chase contains the very doctrine for which Mr. Douglas is now contending; and if it had been incorporated into the bill would have left moreom for doubt or construction on the subject. It consists, says the Observer, of the Rev. Dr. Eddard, one of the noblest philanthropists had been incorporated and Mr. Douglas has been so used in sists of Ireland, and whose name is nearly as many however, repudiated and rejected, and Mr. Douglas now insists that the construction which him Eddard Republicant Scientors attempted in 1854 to put upon the Nebraska bill, is the true Democratic construction. It did not think so them. His Democratic associates who voted with him do not think so now. We regret that Mr. Douglas has changed his opinions on this important question, and warn our Democratic friends against the danger of failing into the fatal error of adopting black republican constructions of Democratic measures. THE SOUTHERN PRESS AGAINST DOUGLAS.

-Following the lead of the Washington Constitution and the Richmond Enquirer, those two great lights of National Democracy, the son of the late Chief Oshkosh of the Menomone Indians, named Kachbowhiner, into the Squatter Sovereignty dodge of Senator Douglas doctrine on the territorial question is much in conflict with the Dred Scott decision as the doctrine of Seward, and it is perfect folly to talk of supporting one and resising the inauguration of the other. The Southern Democracy must be just and consistent in their professions and practices if they would command the respect and deserve the endorsement of the whole Southern people in the policy they propose.

The Charleston Mercury is even more determined that their life was the life of the "Great Spirit." See.

Son of the late Chief Oshkosh of the Menomone Indians, named Kachbowhinev, into the Challons, named Kachbowhinev, into the Challeston with his wife and child. He is a temperate and industrious man, entirely different from his two brothers. When the news reached them that their brother had become a christian, they exclaimed that they would not betray their friends (which meant the bottle and the dram) for all the whites in creation, and that their life was the life of the "Great Spirit." See.

The Charleston Mercury is even more denunciatory than the Mississippian. We

The Sentinel and Adopted Citizens.

The Sentinet and anotyce controls.

The Sentinet is alarmed, and not without good cause, on account of our allusion to the Know Nothing production of some of the Black Republican candidates, the state ticket. It will have hard work to convince the labelligen nauralized citizens of this State, that it is even safe for them to ally themselves with a party which has adopted the two years amendment in Manachusetts this very year, let alone the amouthing over the rough treatment, which the Germans received at their bands, in the late Convention at Madison.—News.

The Sentinel is not in the least "alarmed" y the Know-Nothing inventions of the News. The intelligent naturalized citizens of this State" are not to be fooled by any such silly and transparent fabrications. The Germans, so far from receiving "rough treatment" at the hands of our Republican State Convention, were treated, as they deserved to be, with every consideration. If the Republican Party is to be held responsible for "the two years amendment in Massachusetts, then must Sham Democracy be called to account for the South Carolina precedent for that proscriptive measure. South Carolina, an exclusively Democratic State, was the first to initiate the policy of discriminating against

The Republican party, thro' its recognized organs and by its leading statesmen and presses, condemns and repudiates both. The Administration against Douglas.

The Constitution, the organ of the National Dimograpy, seems to be exclusively occupied, just now, with Scuator Douglas and his Squatter Sovereignty heresies. Here are some samples of the way in which this Administration mouth-piece speaks of the Illinois reled:

THE BURCHOSERRING TOTAL OF SENATOR DOUGLAS. THE EXECTIONEERING TOTA OF SEXATOR DOCUMEN.
This title, we regret to say, truly designates the character of the movements of Mr. Sonator. Doughs. If it is not calculated to win the respect of suber-united and we informed near, the fault is his own. It is the general belief in the political circles of the metropolis that, if anything can endanger the cause of the Democracy in Ohio, it will be the visit of Mr. Douglas. That archemischief-maker has been potent there only for evil, not for good, to the cause of the national democracy.

Senator Douglas, on his own part, fights mack vigorously against the Administration. In his speech at Wooster, Ohio, of which a the Union." How is it then, that in this brief account has appeared in our telegraph columns, he thus paid his respects to Judge BLACK, the U. S. Attorney General:

BLACK, the U. S. Attorney General:

After discussing at considerable length the question of popular swereignty and the rights of the people of a Territory, Judge Douglas rock up the reply to his recent article in Harper's Magazine which has been attributed to Judge Black, ank asserted that if he was the judge to the Democrative Hilmois to support Abolitionists for Congress in preference to the regular Democratic conditions.

Whether Judge Black was the author or not, the copy which he (Judge Douglas) held in his hand come to the gentleman who handed it to him in the care, ander the frank of that gentleman.

It is asserted that the article in Harper contained an assault on the Federal Courts; but the author of this reply, no matter who he was, knew that he intered a full control of the last weeks.

Buring the last year's canvass in Hilnois, he (Judge Douglas) made one hundred and thirty speeches, and in every one of them he defended that Court. What then could be thought of a man who would prostitute a high office to deceive the American people?

Who ever the author of that reply was, he was a base culmunictor. He have it was a faisehood, and the writer knew it to be such, that he (Judge Douglas) had ever advocated the doctrine that private property could be configured by any power on earth, except by due process of law. The author of that pumplifel dearth a double fulcehood. It was a deliberate attempt to misrepresent his position, unworthy of any man who claimed any respect for himself. It was a misrepresentation unde for the purpose of attacking him, and weakening the force of the Democratic party.

The quarrel between the Administration

The quarrel between the Administration and Senator Douglas is "a very pretty one as it stands." If each does full justice to the other, the country will undoubtedly pro-"agitator" and preaches up "Squatter-Sov- at the revelations, and take good care that

OAKLAND, Mr., Sept 8, 1859. To the Editor of the Washington States:
Sin:—In your paper of the 6th inst , I find an easay by the Hon. Stephen A. Douglas an easay by the Hon. Popular Sovereignty in the Territories, on "Popular Sovereignty in the Territories," and observe that the author quotes from a and observe that the author quotes from a discussion between him and myself on the bill of 1850 to establish a civil government for the Territory of New Mexico, but his extracts are so partial as to misrepresent the position which I then and ever since have held. I will not tax your courtest by asking for the use of your columns to reply to the arguments of the essay, or to vindicate the Democracy of the South from the supposition that we are correctly described in this classification of the political opinion of the country on the subject of Territorial governments. ountry on the subject of Territorial government, or to reduce his assumption that the existence of a local law in New Mexico, which prohibited slavery, was an undisputed fact. Whoever refers to the debate from which he quotes, will not fail to observe that it was shown to have been not a municipal law, but the result of a degree of a licetator of the sucharacter of public or pointers ray, when he was contended was repealed by the transfer of jurisdiction to the United States, and the consequent subjection of the Territory to the provision of our Constitution. Hence the comment which Mr. Douglas makes upon the extracts he selected from the remarks of Mr. Clarged meets?

the extracts he selected from the remarks of Mr. Clay and myself, perverts the position which he had full opportunity to know was held by myself and others who participated in the debate.

My object in addressing you this letter, is My object in addressing you this letter, is to request that you will give to your readers an additional extract from the remarks of Mr. Douglas, to counteract the impression he made by the extract already published.

Mr. Douglas thus quotes from himself:

With reference to the protection of property in slaves, Mr. Douglas said:

I have a word to say to the honorable Senter prop. Mississippi I Mr. Doris L. He in-

I have a word to say to the nonorance sen-ator from Mississippi, [Mr. Davis.] He in-sists that I am not in favor of protecting property, and that his amendment is officed for the purpose of protecting property under the Constitution. Now, sir, I ask you what authority he has for assuming that !— Do I not desire to protect property because I wish to show the people to pass such laws. wish to allow the people to pass such laws wish to allow the proper respecting their rights to property without any exemption? He might as well say I am opposed to protecting property in merchandize, in steamboats, in cattle, in real estate, as to say that I am opproperty in merchanize, in scannoac, in cattle, in real estate, as to say that I am opposed to protecting property of any other description, for I desire to put them all on equality, and allow the people to make their own laws in respect to the whole of them.

If, as thence is to be inferred, Mr. Doughas without a gire to all property (1991) and as wished to give to all property (qual protection and security—if he was opposed to any exception, obstruction, or discrimination against property or slaves, it will naturally be asked, what, then, was my position with which he so directly antagonized. The injustice of his extract is made apparent by quoting farther from his own remarks on the point and in the same connection: Mr. Douglas. But the Senator from Mississippi says that he is contending for a min-ciple that requires Congress to protect propapple that requires congress to protect prop-perty, but that I am contending against it.— Not at all, sir. I desire to give them such a government as will enable them to protect property of every kind and description. I wish to make no exception. He desires to make an exception.

Mr. Davis, Not at all, sir.

Mr. Davis, The gar, remain contended

Mr. Davis. Not at all, sir.
Mr. Douglas. The government contended for authorizes them to protect property in horses, in cattle, in merchandize, and property of every kind and description, real and personal; but the Senator from Mississippil says that you must exclude African slavery.
Mr. Davis. No, sir, I said no such thing.
Mr. Douglas. He excepted.
Mr. Davis. With the Senator's permission, I will explain. He is attacking the bill; but I had nothing to do with the bill; excent to try and better it.

cept to try and better it.

Mr. Douglas. I begin to discover my error. I am holding the Senator responsible for the work of the committee of thirteen. Mr. Davis (in his seat). It was a very great error.
Mr. Douglas. I was making war upon him by mistake. I must pay my respects to the committee of thirteen. I will not extend this communication by comment or reference to other portions of the debate, and the votes by which various propositions were decided. I contended then, as now, for the equality of the South in the right to enjoy the common unappropriated domain; and for adequate protection to all the constitutional rights of every citiz no of the United States. To this end I hope we may yet attain.

Very, respectfully, your old't servent.

We can only give a few figures of feet and a few figures of the and a few figures of the subject. of fact, and a few figures of rhetoric, and construction.

three years, and who knows every rib and joint in her anatomy.

Captain Harrison, after eighteen years of experience as a commander of steam-vessels, has unlimited faith in the speed, safety and profits of the Great Eastern; and stakes his hard-earned savings on the result. Of course there are skeptics and croakers who predict all sorts of disasters; but there never was an enterprise, a reform, or an improvement, that did not have to encounter in the outset the meers of the envious, and the doubts of the incredulous.

The Great Eastern will have large and ele

The number of hands in all departments required to "work her" will be five hundred. She will have three propeiling powers—the paddle, the screw and the saiss. Her speed is a question of lively speculation, and betting on her titional is lively a pre- as high saith. En-"time" is likely to run as high as the Epsom races.
As there may be no harm in venturing an opinion, without risking a fortune to back it, I will bet a bottle of Longworth's best "Catawba" that the Great Eastern will "do" the Atlantic inside of eight days; and when to phenomenon reaches Portland she will almost pay for herself by dividing profits with the railroad companies, who will trans-port hundreds of thousands of passengers to on the show. Parties are already organizing here to go out to the States on her first trip; and if that is successful, she will return crowded with Americans, who will find life on board the Great Ship, at least more novel and certainly not more expensive than at Newport and Saratoga. She will carry a full octillian band, and a complete printing office; a livery stable has also been suggested. The ship will be brilliantly lighted with gas orders will be conveyed by electric telegraph; and her tracks across the ocean should be distinctly marked on the charts, so that all other craft may give her as wide a berth as they would a rocky coast with a gale blow-ing in. And I take the liberty of respectfully uggesting to the British and United lovernments that the Great Eastern should be allowed to send respectively a member to Congress and a member to Parliament.— Surely such an institution is as much entitled to representation as the "Vanderbilt" r the "Galway line," both of which carried

MESERS, FREUND & GROSSINGER, Gentlemes:—I received from you eight samples of feel and White Hungarian Wines, which, at your request, I have submitted to chemical analysis. I send you the details with list letter,
From my researches at appears that these Wines are pure, and they cone ain nothing but the pyolucts of the grape. I can confidently recomment them to the public as good and pure wines, and as not so likely to become nour as the light wines of France.
I exposed my samples forty-eight hours to the sig,

The Great Ploating Derrick for Raising Sunken Vessels—An American Invention A Brig and a Steambout Lifted out of Waiter togsther—Bescription of its Pecu-liarities Uses and Operations.

ENGINEERING ABROAD.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.

London, Aug. 19th, 1859.

Among the many scientific works that are attracting attention abroad, the mammoth derrick, which lifts a thousand tons at pull, is the lion of the present writing. Nor does it attract the popular wonder alone, for the highly scientific manner in which it works is much admired by the profession.—
It is the invention of Mr. Albert D. Bishop, a well known American engineer, and was built under his direction for the "Patent Derrick Company," recently formed in this occasion was satisfactory. London, Aug. 19th, 1859. built under his direction for the "Patent Derrick Company," recently formed in this city. This Company has made an arrangement with the Insurance Companies and underwriters of London and Liverpool, which secures to it 75 per cent. of the net salvage proceeds from all vessels and cargoes sunk prior to this agreement, and raised by its machinery. The New York Floating Derrick Company, which has annually paid over 20 per cent., also several other American Companies, operating under Mr. Bishop's patent, have raised upwards of four hundred sunken and stranded vessels. The steamer Ericsson, of 2,200 tons, which, it will be remembered, sank off the Jersey coast some years since, was lifted to the surface of the water by a degride of only 200 tons cannot be defined as the other side of the sunken ship, and through another at the other side, both divers are dropped to to the bottom, and tend to draw together and years since, was lifted to the surface of the water by a derrick of only 300 tons capacity. But the great derrick, with a capacity of 1,000 tons, will raise to the surface the largest ship ever sunk, pump it out at the rate of 60 tons of water a minute, and hold it fast till it is either put into floating condition, or stripped of its valuables. All it requires is a good hold, and this it can get deeper than good hold, and this it can get, deeper than divers ever sounded. As to ordinary vessels of 1,200 or 1,400 tous, whose actual weight would be within the capacity of the great lifter, it would simply tift them up from the bottom, carry them ashore, and land them high and dry on the dock. It would in half n hour lift 40 first class locomotives alto-gether, or the hull of the Great Britain, and leposit its burden on the deck of the Great Such being the enormous capacity of this engine, a glance at the wrecking statistics will reveal an ample field for its labors. On a single day in 1851, one hundred and seventeen vessels were wrecked on the British coast. An average of five years gives 1,425 wrecks a year, comprising upwards of 150,-000 tons of shipping, valued at eleven and a quarter millions of dollars. Among these on all frequented shores are many rich merchantmen and costly steamers; the salvage on one such prize would almost pay for the whole lifting machinery. Besides all this, such derricks would find ample and remunera-tive employment in lifting vessels off shores and over bars, in launching great ships, in unloading and transporting heavy cargoes from dock to dock, in hoisting boilers, engines and masts, and in careening vessels for repairs, and they will have a clear field and prove of inestimable value in raising sunken rocks, and in creeting marine structures.—

Their scope of operation is almost unlimited.
Coast and river works of the greatest magnitude and of the most vital importance may now be creeted at a cost which would have hardly purchased the necessary apparatus a few years ago, since the capacity is not a mere dead lift. Locomotion at a good speed.

great stability in all weather, enormous pumping power, which can be exerted at a great distance from the engine itself, the universal functions of a lifting and swinging crane versar functions of a fitting and swinging crans of variable power, and every required convenience of application and adjustment, are all combined in this gigantic sea king, whose achievements more than realize the fables of ald.

The machine consists, first, of a flat-bot-tomed boat of 257 feet length at $2.90 feet beam or about the length of an ordinary steamship, and 12 feet broader than the Great Eastern. The depth is 14 feet, the draft of water is only 4 feet, the bow and stern are sharp, the ground-plan is rhomboidal and resembles a compositor's type case, being divided into 37 water-tight departments. 1a feet CASH COAL YARD!

are 10 sets of gigantic, iron four-fold pullies. The chain cables working in them passalong the boom over fixed rollers down to the deck, and under similar rollers along the deck to their ten respective "crabs," which stand in and under similar rollers along the deck to their ten respective "crabs," which stand in a row on the side opposite to the derrick, and by which they are hauled in. All or a part once, as circumstances require. The crab is a massive frame, holding a windlass consisting of a shaft attachable by a ciutch to the main shaft from the engine, and two other shafts so geared to the first that they move more slowly. The two shafts are simply grooved rollers a foot in diameter, standing say four feet apart. The pulley chain passes around the pair of rollers (not each roller to shafts) several times, and thence into separately) several times, and thence into the hold below, but is not fastened to the rollers. The chain has such great friction on the rollers that it will either raise the weight, stop the engine, or break; it cannot

if the ordinary windlass were used, it would have to be of immense diameter to hold several hundred feet of chain, while if the chain were to wind upon it in two or more layers, it would jerk, bind, and give trouble generally. The two rollers revolve with and upon the periphery of the wheel which drives them, so that their rolling friction is reduced to the minimum. Altogether these crabs are extremely well designed and adapted. In the middle of the vessel, and attached to the shaft moving all the crabs, are two oscillating steam engines of 39-horse attached to the snatt moving all the crabs, are two oscillating steam engines of 30-horse power, each with Barran's cup-surface boilers, the latter being under the deck.

So far we have a tractive power of 1.000 tons on the 10 sets of pulleys. But suppose them to be attached to a sunken ship of that weight? After a few hundred tons had been exerted, our hung district years and all exerted, our huge derrick, vessel and all, would begin to careen, and would ultimately pull itself over upon its beam-ends, the sunken ship sticking in the mud as before. Here comes in the chief feature of the improve-ment. The entire hull, as we have seen, is a honey-comb of water-tight compartments— those on the side opposite the derrick being capable of holding 1,700 tons of water. Two pair of steam-pumps, of two feet stroke above each, capable of throwing 60 tons a minute, fill up these compartments from the sea, as fast as the strain on the pulleys increases, so has the strain on the pulleys increases, so that the sunken vessel on one side, and the water cells on the other, just balance each, and the empty compartments under the derrick hold the whole mass affoat. The entire draft of vater in this case will be only nine feet. The pumps also throw out the water as the strain decreases. One of their most useful officer will be to feet attack of the pumps. useful offices will be to free stranded ships.

How to propel this great craft was not a simple question. There not being draft enough for either screws or paddles, an old device was rejuvenated, viz.: On each side two skeleton drums, resembling two paddle-wheels, were placed, one near the bow and the other near the stern. Over these pass endless chains, on which are secured the floats or paddle-boards, some twenty-four being immersed at a time. So the vessel crawls like a centipede at the rate of seven knots an hour. The four propelling engines are of eighty horse-power each, and are entirely under the deak. It is evident that this craft cannot be easily wrecked, for its width will prevent its capsizing, and, although seas may sweep its deck, they cannot break through useful offices will be to free stranded ships sweep its deck, they cannot break through nor strain it, for the entire hull is a girder of almost immeasurable strength. Should it of almost immeasurable strength. Should it collide and fill half its compartments, the rest will keep it afloat.

It having been impossible to secure a large vessel near London, on which the giant could try its hand, its only experiment has been the lifting of a couple of smaller ones. Six of the pulleys were secured by chains, forming a cradle, under an old brig of 300 tons, weighing some 270 tons, and drawing some ten feet of water. In fourteen minutes it was raised about tenuty feet in the other than the was raised about twenty feet in the air; the engine making ninety-four revolutions per minute. A small iron steamboat, weighing sixty tons, was then run underneath, and attached to the suspended brig. The engines being again started, both vessels were raised to the bottom, and tend to draw together and hold the chains under the ship. By holst-ing more on one chain than on the other, one end of the ship may be raised a little, and the sticking in the mud thus overcome by a great leverage. When one end is raised, the other chains are similarly slipped under, without the aid of living divers, till they form a cradle under the ship, which is then lifted bodily, the pressure of the water of course assisting, until it reaches the surface. It is then either pumped out, careened, made tight and set alloat, or held up and towed into ten or twelve feet water, or if it weigh less than 1,000 tons; deposited on the dock.

The measurment of the great derrick is The measurment of the great derrick is 5,000 tons. Its cost was $250,600—equal to that of a first class Sound or North River steamer. It is soon to be tested on the coast, in relating a surface steamer. in raising a sunken steamship. I may then have occasion to tell your readers about its actual working performances, and of the sights presented by a ship suddenly brought to the sruface after it has lain for years at the bottom, with its treasure and its dead.
